The movement and development of Montreal's Jewish community is documented by tracking the synagogues. As in a detective story, disparate pieces of evidence reveal an intriguing tale. Historic city maps and directories, sepia coloured photos, brittle newspaper articles, long forgotten anniversary publications, and the remnants of buildings serve as clues. The expertise of specialists and testimony of eyewitnesses lend invaluable assistance in understanding and interpreting these traces of the past.

I will be sharing the evening with Norm Ravvin who will be presenting his novel, The Joyful Child.
